GERMAN WAR PRACTICE

Destruction of the Library of the University of Louvain

From an article in the London Times of November 4, 1915, by M. E. Durham, quoting Professor Leon Van der Essen, who had recently seen the librarian, Professor Delannoy, who went to the spot August 27, 1914, to see whether anything could be saved:

"The Germans did not penetrate the building, but contented themselves with smashing the main window looking on the Vieux Marché. Through that window they introduced some inflammable liquid and fired a few shots, causing an immediate explosion.

"On the night of Tuesday, the 25th, a father of the Josephite College, which is located a few yards from the spot where the Germans smashed the main window, called the attention of the commanding officer to the fact that the building he was going to destroy was the University Library. The officer replied, textually, 'Es ist Befehl!' [It is the order.] It was then 11 p. m. These are the facts."

That our own Universities and Libraries have not suffered the fate of Louvain is due to the unbroken line of our Allies. To secure to all peoples, great and small, self-government and the peaceful use of learning, the United States is at war.

ART AND ARCHAEOLOGY

An Illustrated Monthly Magazine published at Washington, D. C.

ARCHAEOLOGICAL INSTITUTE OF AMERICA

ART AND ARCHAEOLOGY tells the story of the Arts throughout the Ages in simple language, illustrated by beautiful pictures. Human interest, timeliness, and literary merit are the tests applied in the choice of articles; artistic quality and appropriateness in the selection of illustrations.

The contributed articles are of varied interest, embracing the fields of Oriental, Greek, Roman, Christian, Renaissance, and American archaeology and art. Full page illustrations are made an attractive feature. Notes from the various fields and brief paragraphs concerning archaeological discoveries, new books, and other items of current interest are worthy of mention.
